2. Political and Humanitarian Repercussions:

During the period covered by this report, several mass graves were discovered, revealing attempts by the occupation army to conceal its crimes. These graves contained the bodies of hundreds of civilians executed by the occupation forces and hidden in the ground. Many of these bodies could not be identified due to intentional changes and distortions to their features. Given this grim reality, it is imperative to conduct comprehensive investigations into the circumstances surrounding the assassination and burial of civilians. These graves serve as evidence of the commission of the crime of genocide.

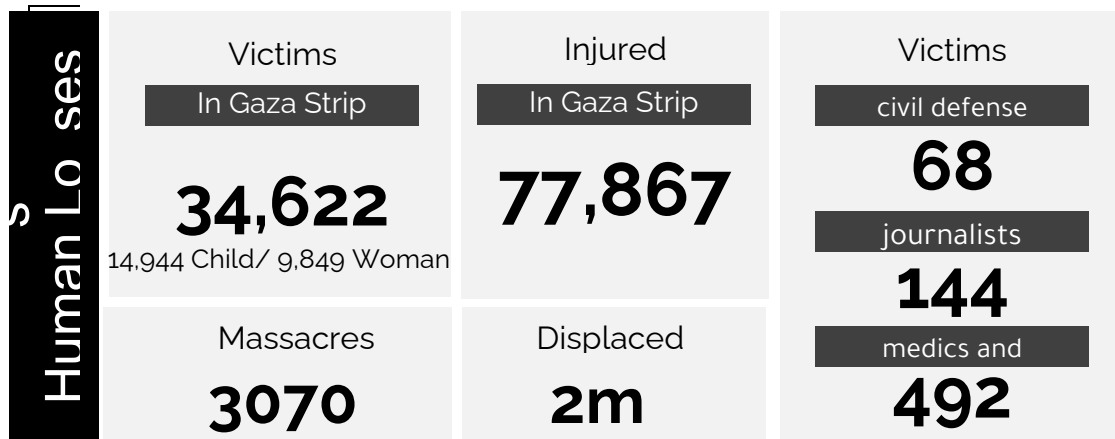

In a related context of the occupation army committing war crimes against humanity, there are indications that the occupation forces may be using thermal weapons. These weapons generate intense heat, leading to the vaporization of victims' bodies during widespread attacks. It is important to emphasize that this is not mere speculation but based on preliminary information that sheds light on the horrific levels of killing and genocide perpetrated by the occupation authorities in the Gaza Strip.

Turning to the humanitarian repercussions, the occupation authorities persisted in restricting the work of relief institutions, targeting their staff, impeding their operations, and controlling the distribution of food to Gaza's citizens. These actions have left many without achieving adequate levels of food security. It is crucial to underscore that these practices constitute crimes warranting accountability, particularly as they contravene measures outlined by the International Court of Justice, UN Security Council resolutions, and relevant international statements.

3. Human Loss and Material Damage:

The toll of human lives in the Gaza Strip from October 7, 2023, to May 3, 2024, reached 34,622 deaths, tragically including 14,944 children, among them 30 children who succumbed to famine, as well as 9,849 women. Additionally, 492 medical personnel, 68 civil defense personnel, and 144 journalists were martyred. The number of wounded individuals stood at 77,867, with 10,000 people reported missing, of whom 70% are children and women. The displacement crisis worsened, with the number of displaced people soaring to 2 million. The occupation army's atrocities were starkly evident, with documented cases of over 3,070 massacres.

In terms of detentions, 310 medical personnel and 20 journalists were arrested during the ground invasion of the Gaza Strip starting October 27, 2023, adding to a total of over 5,000 arrests as of May 3, 2024.

Infrastructure bore the brunt of the destruction, with 184 government headquarters, 103 schools and universities rendered completely inoperative, and 311 educational institutions partially damaged. Mosques suffered greatly, with 243 completely demolished and 321 partially destroyed, alongside the destruction of three churches. Residential units suffered immensely, with 86,000 completely demolished and 294,000 partially damaged. Additionally, 206 archaeological sites were destroyed, all due to over 75,000 tons of explosives.

Hospitals were not spared, with 32 hospitals and 53 health centers rendered inoperative. Moreover, 160 health institutions were targeted, affecting healthcare provision, and 126 ambulances were completely damaged.

The blockade and targeting of aid and medicines led to a dire health crisis, with 1,095,000 cases of infectious diseases, 20,000 cases of viral hepatitis, 10,000 untreated cases of cancer, 60,000 pregnant women lacking healthcare, and 350,000 cases of chronic diseases.

In the West Bank, 494 deaths, over 4,950 wounded, and 8,088 prisoners were reported. The forced displacement process affected approximately 3,985 individuals, with about 648 facilities demolished. These figures represent the harrowing consequences of the Israeli occupation's genocide in the Gaza Strip from October 7, 2023, to May 3, 2024.
