2. Political and Humanitarian Repercussions:

The period covered by this report includes a horrific massacre committed by the Israeli occupation army, which bombed a field hospital at "Khadija School" in the central Gaza Strip. This attack resulted in the deaths of 18 people and injured dozens more. These ongoing massacres are part of a systematic policy targeting the health system, leading to the destruction, burning, and shutting down of hospitals. Medical staff are under high pressure, facing severe shortages of health and medical supplies due to the closure of crossings, which prevents the travel of the wounded and sick and the entry of essential fuel. These tragic conditions illustrate the catastrophic deterioration of humanitarian and health conditions in the region.

In terms of political repercussions, the occupation army continues to commit crimes against humanity through policies of displacement and forced relocation. These actions reshape human geography, endangering the lives of hundreds of thousands, including the injured, sick, pregnant women, children, the elderly, and people with special needs, exposing them to the risk of death. These measures are part of systematic attempts to impose forced displacement on the civilian population, exacerbating their suffering and putting their lives in constant danger.

Figures suggest that about 10% of the Gaza Strip's population were killed, injured, or missing during the ten months of the genocide. Preliminary statistics indicate that approximately 50,000 Palestinians were either assassinated or remain missing under the rubble of buildings, with their bodies still on roads, in border areas, or in destroyed zones, hindering their recovery. Additionally, more than 100,000 Palestinians were injured during this period.
