2. Political and Humanitarian Repercussions:

The reporting period highlighted two tragic massacres conducted by the Israeli occupation army in the central governorate, targeting centers for displaced individuals. Israel bombed Al-Aqsa Mosque, adjacent to Al-Aqsa Hospital, and Ibn Rushd School, both inhabited by hundreds of displaced. The attacks resulted in 24 fatalities and injuring 93 others. These actions are part of a wider campaign by occupation forces aimed at deliberately attacking shelters for the displaced.

In addition, this period saw an escalation in the occupation army's efforts to impose forced displacement, with intensified assaults on Gaza City and the northern Gaza Strip. This coincided with a ground incursion and the issuance of a new evacuation map for residents of the northern Gaza Strip. In one day, more than 70 air strikes were documented, along with heavy artillery bombardment on Jabalia city, Jabalia camp, Beit Lahia, and the northwest region of Gaza City. These attacks targeted homes, civilian gatherings, a water distribution vehicle, and a shelter for the displaced, leading to numerous civilian casualties.
